

Lighting Design Position Available
Department of Drama and Dance
Tufts University

Position:

The Department of Drama and Dance welcomes applications for a Lecturer in Drama, with a specialization in Lighting Design. This is a full-time, non-tenure-track appointment which will begin September 1, 2012.

Salary:

Commensurate with qualifications and previous experience.

Qualifications:

MFA in lighting design with a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching. Comprehensive knowledge of lighting equipment and electrics, including Vectorworks and Lightwright proficiency; ability to effectively and safely manage a student electrics crew, including dimmer and electrics maintenance; excellent communication skills; collaborative approach to theater. Ability to supervise stage management and/or to create and record sound design and maintain sound equipment is a plus.

Responsibilities:

Teach at least two classes in lighting and possibly sound design during the academic year. Design the lighting and/or sound for three departmental major productions. Supervise and maintain theater's electrics department. Supervise student electrics employees. Supervise and/or advise student lighting designers. Contribute to the continuing development of lighting/electrics curriculum in response to the department's mission. Serve on committees as needed. Support the University's ongoing commitment to service and outreach.

Application Procedure:

Please send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, three letters of reference, and non-returnable supporting materials (slides, photos, drafting) to:

Ted Simpson
Chair, Lighting Design Lecturer Search
Department of Drama and Dance
Tufts University
Medford, Ma 02155

Review of applications begins November 1, 2011 and will continue until the position has been filled.

Tufts University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer. We are committed to increasing the diversity of our faculty. Members of underrepresented groups are strongly encouraged to apply.